Hello and welcome to the World Safety Organization August Newsletter. As always, I hope you find it useful and informative concerning the many World Safety Organization activities.

One of the near-term upcoming World Safety Activities is the annual Symposium to be held in a few weeks in Las Vegas, Nevada. It is a good time to renew acquaintances from the past and make new ones. It is also a good time to obtain new information and understand what is going on around the world. We hope to see you there!

A number of our members have registered as speakers and others as attendees. We hope for more to increase the attendance and speaker roster. If you are thinking or planning to attend, now is the time to get registered and make travel and lodging plans. We are sure it will be an exciting and informative time.

It has been a couple of years since our last symposium, thanks to all the restrictions during the pandemic. Covid was a major disrupter of everyone's activities around the world. Safety took a front row seat as we have navigated the last couple of years through this mess.

It is still not over, and we encourage everyone to keep vigilant as we travel to business activities and international meetings. The world has become a more dangerous place and we need to adjust to it. This is a good reason to attend the annual symposium--to get new information and ideas.

We will see you in Las Vegas!
