

Sent: Friday, August 20, 2021 11:29:02 AM

Good Morning,

As you may be aware, this year, the Department of Labor is recognizing Labor Rights Week from August 30 to September 3, 2021. During the week OSHA will be joining the U.S. Department of Labor Wage and Hour Division, and foreign embassies and their consulates to share information and educational materials to ensure workers are paid properly and kept safe on the job. Many immigrant workers have performed essential duties throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. Labor Rights Week is a collaborative effort to increase awareness and inform these workers of their rights, and employers of their responsibilities under U.S. labor laws. We invite you to visit the Department of Labor's 2021 Labor Rights Week webpage, which contains a toolkit with Labor Rights Week graphics, talking points and other valuable information pertaining to safety and health and fair wages.

Please feel free to share this information with your members and stakeholders, as appropriate.

Doug Kalinowski
Directorate of Cooperative and State Programs

WHD | U.S. Department of Labor \(dol.gov\)

Labor Rights Week | U.S. Department of Labor \(dol.gov\)